

Gilbert Campbell was born in the Centralville section of Lowell where he lived until he was 21 years old. He attended Lowell High School and upon graduating went to work in the real estate business. Throughout his career, he has built over 1500 houses, 3000 apartments and many commercial buildings which he currently owns and manages. In 1989, Gil built the beautiful hotel and restaurant Stonehedge Inn which was named after his farm in Tyngsboro and Florida.

Gil is a founding member and Past President of the Lowell Home Builders Association and is Past President of the Massachusetts Home Builders Association. He has also served as Vice President of the National Home Builders Association and is a lifetime Director. In the early 60's, he was named New England Builder of The Year and during this same period the United States State Department chose one of his houses to be exhibited in Moscow for an exposition on American technology. In 2002, he was elected to the Northeast Builder's Hall Of Fame and this past February Gil was honored by The National Home Builder's Association for his services as a lifetime voting member of its Board of Directors.

Over the years Gil has been actively involved in the community including:

- Founding member of the Lowell Plan, serving on the Board of Directors for many years.
- Served as a member of the Executive Committee and Board of Trustees for Saint's Memorial Medical Center and Saint John's Hospital, and was Chair of the Board of St. John's from 1987-88
- Board of Directors for several local banks
- Chairman of the Board of the Northern Middlesex Chamber of Commerce for several years and a recipient of the Doctor An Wang Award
- Recipient of the Red Cross Donna and Elkin McCallum Humanitarian Award
- Honorary Degree of Doctor of Commercial Science from Merrimack College
- Past President of Vesper Country Club and co owner of the Lowell Lock Monsters.

Presently, Gil and his wife Marilyn are very involved in the thoroughbred horse industry. They both raise and race thoroughbred horses and have a farm in Williston, Florida. They have had many successful thoroughbreds competing in prestigious races around the country and are one of the most accomplished breeders in the state of Florida. Gil has served on the Board of Directors for the Florida Breeders and Owners Association for several years and is currently the President and Chairman of the Board. Most recently, he was inducted into The New England Turf Writers Hall of Fame.
